

Cover Letter Simulation

NAME _____	DATE _____	PERIOD _____
------------	------------	--------------

Purpose and Privacy

A cover letter connects a specific posting to truthful evidence. Many employers do not require one; follow the posting. This simulation uses the fictional Pecan Creek posting and a fictional applicant identity. Do not use your home address, personal phone/email, birth date, ID numbers, family data, or a real employer contact.

Four jobs of a short cover letter:

One difference between a cover letter and a resume:

Fictional Applicant Evidence Card

Jordan Rivera · jordan.rivera@example.com · Irving, Texas

Grade 8 student. Organized a class supply checkout for six weeks, revised labels after classmates reported confusion, greeted families during a supervised school event, and used a spreadsheet to check 120 inventory entries. Skills: respectful communication, accuracy, organization, asking clarifying questions, Google Docs/Sheets. No paid work claimed.

Posting requirement/evidence match 1:

Match 2:

One gap Jordan should not hide or invent:

Plan the Letter

Recipient role if no name is verified: Hiring Manager / Office Manager / Human Resources

Opening - position, source, specific interest:

Body evidence 1 - action, task, result/purpose, posting link:

Body evidence 2:

Closing - interest, thanks, authorized next step:

Full Draft

Use 3-4 short paragraphs and Jordan's fictional evidence only.

[illegible]

Accuracy and Voice Audit

- ☐ every claim is supported by the evidence card;
- ☐ letter is tailored to this posting;
- ☐ no invented enthusiasm, employer fact, credential, work history, or result;
- ☐ no private data;
- ☐ concise plain language sounds like a real person;
- ☐ opening/body/closing jobs are clear;
- ☐ spelling/format do not obscure meaning.

One generic or inflated sentence I revised:

Before / after:

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.