

Mock Interview and Thank-You Record

NAME _____ DATE _____ PERIOD _____

Simulation Roles and Boundaries

Use Jordan Rivera and the fictional Pecan Creek posting. Do not disclose personal information, real work history, reference contacts, family information, protected/private topics, or send any message.

Route: paired live / small group / teacher conference / recorded role simulation / AAC

Round 1 role: interviewer / interviewee

Round 2 role: interviewer / interviewee

Ready checks:

- ☐ posting/evidence card and question plan open;
- ☐ timer and feedback method ready;
- ☐ appearance/technology/access plan complete;
- ☐ one follow-up question prepared;
- ☐ private/irrelevant questions excluded.

Interviewee Evidence - Round 1

Question answered: _____

Situation/task evidence:

Action:

Result/reflection:

One strength and one revision:

Interviewer Evidence - Round 1

Question asked: _____

Neutral evidence notes:

Relevant follow-up and why:

One listening/organization strength and one revision:

Round 2 Revision Evidence

Role and question: _____

Revision applied from Round 1:

Evidence from the second round:

What improved:

Final Fictional Thank-You Note

A brief note is sent soon after a real interview—often within 24 hours—through the authorized route. This classroom note is not sent.

Fictional recipient role: _____

Include a specific thanks/interview detail, one relevant qualification or interest, and a courteous close with an authorized next step.

[illegible]

Audit:

- ☐ specific, brief, accurate, and courteous;
- ☐ no new unsupported claim;
- ☐ no pressure or repeated contact;
- ☐ no real address/contact data;
- ☐ not sent.

Portfolio Reflection

Strongest evidence across posting, cover letter, application, references, interview, and thank-you note:

One inconsistency or privacy risk I fixed:

One job-search step I would use next in a real future situation—with a trusted adult:

One revision I would make before a real application:
