

Motivation and Hospitality Career Comparison

NAME _____ DATE _____ PERIOD _____

Part 1: Build a motivation plan

Use Find Your Future pp. 121-123. Design a professional baking competition that uses at least one intrinsic motivator and one extrinsic motivator.

Contest name: _____

Competition goal:

Two rules or limits:

1. _____

2. _____

Prize, recognition, or outside reward:

Intrinsic motivator, such as learning, achievement, attitude, or personal pride:

Why might these motivators affect two bakers differently?

Part 2: Compare the career evidence

Use the fixed Hospitality Career Evidence Guide. Keep the year, geography, and measure attached to every number.

CAREER	MAY 2024 U.S. MEDIAN	COMMON PREPARATION	2024-2034 GROWTH	ANNUAL OPENINGS
Chef or Head Cook
Lodging Manager
Event Planner

One important schedule or work-condition difference:

One preparation difference that could change a student's choice:

Part 3: Connect motivation across careers

Choose two careers from the table.

Career 1: Career 2:

How could intrinsic motivation help in Career 1?

How could extrinsic motivation help in Career 2?

Which career offers the best fit for a person who values creative control but also wants predictable preparation? Use one career-data fact and one motivation idea.

EVIDENCE BOUNDARY

- ☐ I did not call a U.S. median “DFW starting pay.”
- ☐ I compared all three careers before choosing.
- ☐ I treated motivation as personal, not as proof that one worker tries harder.
