

Effective Job Search Steps and Tracker

NAME _____ | DATE _____ | PERIOD _____

Seven Steps and Safety Boundary

1. Set a realistic target.
2. Prepare truthful materials.
3. Choose safe, credible search sources and people.
4. Search with specific keywords and location.
5. Screen the posting and employer before acting.
6. Track the opportunity, deadline, and status.
7. Tailor, apply through an authorized route, and follow up appropriately.

Today uses fictional postings and a tracker. Do not apply, create an account, upload a résumé, contact an employer, or enter personal information.

The step most often skipped and why it matters:

Step 1-2 — Target and Materials

Fictional target opportunity:

Three keywords that fit the target:

Materials ready and what each proves:

One missing item and safe next action:

Step 3-4 — Sources and Search

Two credible source types and why:

Search string with job, skill, and location:

One warning sign in a search result or message:

How I would verify through the official employer site or a known adult:

Step 5 — Screen a Fictional Posting

Employer name shown: _____

Title and location: _____

Responsibilities and required qualifications:

Deadline/application route shown:

Two checks before acting:

Step 6 – Opportunity Tracker

FIELD	RECORD
Employer and title
Source and capture date
Deadline
Required materials
Status
Next action/date

Why tracking matters when someone searches for several opportunities:

Step 7 – Tailor and Follow Up

One résumé bullet I would move, revise, or emphasize for the fictional posting:

Why it matches the posting:

Appropriate follow-up plan if the posting permits it:

One action I will never take without teacher/family authorization:
