

■ Interview Appearance and Career Brief Rehearsal

NAME _____ | DATE _____ | PERIOD _____

Context-First Appearance

Appropriate appearance depends on the workplace, task, safety needs, and interview format. The goal is prepared, clean, safe, and role-aware—not expensive, gendered, culturally narrow, or based on a person's body.

Four decisions that usually matter:

- learn the workplace expectation;
- choose clean, functional clothing one step more formal when appropriate;
- include task-required safety gear when a demonstration is expected;
- prepare the environment/technology for a virtual interview.

What an interviewer should evaluate instead of brand, price, body, culture, religion, disability, or gender expression:

Scenario 1 - Office or Customer-Facing Interview

Top/layer, bottom, footwear, and materials:

Why the choices fit the workplace without requiring expensive clothing:

One respectful verification question before the interview:

Scenario 2 - Skilled-Trade Interview with Possible Task Demonstration

Clean role-appropriate clothing and any supplied/required safety gear:

What must be confirmed before bringing or using tools/PPE:

Why fashion advice never overrides site safety or an accommodation:

Scenario 3 - Virtual Interview

Clothing/appearance choice:

Camera, lighting, sound, background, notifications, and privacy check:

What to do if video, audio, or bandwidth fails:

Career Brief Rehearsal 1

Route: live partner / small group / teacher conference / recorded audio-video / AAC

Time: _____ seconds

Content heard: career / duty / preparation / labor evidence / conclusion

Delivery evidence or AAC effectiveness:

One feedback point and planned revision:

Career Brief Rehearsal 2

Time: _____ seconds

Revision applied:

What became clearer:

One final content check and one final delivery/AAC check:
